Father Time is a critical old fellow. He has no use for many of the present day watches.

Neither have I. I have so little use for them that they never get in or out of my store. I sell reliable watches—watches with quality, or I sell none.

Watch prices does not always gauge quality or reliability. With me reliability and quality do not necessarily mean high prices. The best goods for the least money, at all times and in all departments of my stock, has ever been and shall ever continue to be my business motto.
